Ajinomoto Cambrooke, Inc. Continues to Expand Worldwide
with the Acquisition of Nualtra Ltd.

Nualtra Limited, a medical nutrition company offering life-enhancing oral nutritional supplements in the UK and Ireland, has been acquired by Ajinomoto Cambrooke, Inc. (ACI). ACI, a global leader and innovator in therapeutic nutrition for inborn errors of metabolism, ketogenic diet therapy, disease-related malnutrition, and, most recently, severe protein allergy, continues to expand its medical nutrition portfolio with this acquisition.

Nualtra has been the fastest-growing oral nutrition supplement provider in the UK and Ireland for several years through its focus on creating the best experience for patients with, or at risk from, disease-related malnutrition. Cambrooke President and Chief Executive Officer Howard Lossing said, “This is a great combination of two companies with a shared mission and one more important step forward on our quest for rapid growth in medical nutrition worldwide.”

ACI is a wholly owned subsidiary of Ajinomoto Health & Nutrition North America, Inc. and draws significant benefit from Ajinomoto group’s world-leading expertise in amino acids, ingredient science, and flavor-enhancing R&D capabilities. This expertise will soon be applied to Nualtra’s portfolio as well. Nualtra’s Chief Executive Officer Mark Lane said of the acquisition, “By leveraging the capabilities of ACI, Ajinomoto and Nualtra, we will strengthen our ability to better serve the needs of our customers and health care professionals. We received several strong offers for our business, but ACI was the obvious choice for everyone involved.”

Nualtra adds expertise to Ajinomoto’s ACI-led medical nutrition business and is the fourth wholly owned subsidiary of ACI. Nualtra’s headquarters, leadership, and entire team will remain unchanged by the acquisition.
